

T235

Axis Wake Research unveiled the 2023 lineup, starting with the next generation of its iconic bestseller Axis T23. The new Axis T235 has become larger, ballast capacity has increased by 100 liters, and the dry weight of the boat is 200 kg. Thanks to the completely new shape of the case, the space in the bow has become noticeably larger. A heavier and more massive nose with a deep V makes it easier to overcome the wave. The reinforced design made it possible to install the most powerful engine in the 607-horsepower Malibu LT4 industry.

The increased dimensions of the boat did not affect its excellent handling. The boat is specially designed for wakeboarding and wakesurfing. The new model is positioned as a golden mean between Axis T220 and Axis T250. Axis T235 retained the signature features in the design: complex body lines, sharp edges and bold color schemes. The new generation of Axis has added two bright colors Volt Yellow and Vivid Orange. In total, more than 30 color options for the case and interior are available to the customer to order. It is worth looking at the boat from the side and you can immediately see the main advantage of the new Axis T235 against the T23 - this is the height of the sides. In the T235, the seat is located deeper, which will allow you to feel safe on steep turns and not worry about young children on board.

The increased volume of ballast tanks allows you to better load the boat to create a wave of any size. Combined with a unique surf system: Surf Gate blades and Power Wedge III plow, the boat allows you to fine-tune the wave for a rider of any level. With the legendary Surf Gate blade system, you can easily adjust the side of the wave without overflowing ballast tanks. The Power Wedge III plough plunges the boat deeper into the water and adjusts the wave height as desired by the rider. The rider can control all surf functions, boat speed and music volume directly from the wave using the unique SurfBand remote control bracelet.

To control the functions of the boat, a multifunctional Garmin touchscreen display is provided. The Axis T235 is the ideal medium-sized towing boat, combining agility, roominess and efficiency.
